Beginning of the Attempt to Establish the Ladies' Auxiliaries.

Eloquent Addresses, Good Music and Refreshments Were at Hand.

Rev. William Gausepohl Praises the Daughters of Old Erin.

FIFTY LADIES ARE INTERESTED

The social meeting of the Ancient Order of Hibernians at Hibernian Hall last Sunday night was a success in every way. The hall was crowded with members of the order and their lady friends. Interesting addresses were made, good music delighted the multitude, refreshments were served and the first steps were taken toward the organization of a ladies' auxiliary. Nearly all the State and county officers were present. Among the ladies present who took an active part in the ladies' auxiliary in former times were Misses Rose Sweeney, Mary Cavanaugh, Mary Kelly and Mrs. James Coleman.

State President Keenan explained the object of the meeting, which was to establish a better social feeling among the Hibernians and to lay the foundation for the re-establishment of the ladies' auxiliary. He then introduced the Rev. Father William Gausepohl, who before he came to Louisville was chaplain of the order in Northern Michigan and in Canada.

Father William began by telling of the Irishman's love for his faith, his country and his countrymen, and paid a high tribute to his national genius on the fields of battle, oratory and poetry. The reverend speaker said that true Hibernians were faithful to God, to church and to the traditions of their ancestors. They were generous, hospitable and quick-witted. He quoted:

"For good nature and for mirth
There's no place on earth
Like the place where shamrocks grow."
Then he continued: "And let me say to the ladies who are about to join the Hibernian ranks: You are the better halves of society, and Hibernians know it, because they take you in with open arms. Incidentally, let me remark, Ireland was always noted for its national gentleness toward the fair sex. A husband in Ireland dare not tell lies on his wife nor leave a mark on her with his fist, and the noxious weed of divorce does not thrive on Irish soil. My Hibernian friends, your respect for the daughters of Erin is inherited from your forefathers. Of course women sometimes are like thermometers, whose quicksilver is affected by the rise or fall of the temperature of the weather. Still women have fine qualities, delicate perception, love of religion, tender charity, a taste for realness and are bent on economy as a rule." He made a feeling reference to our Right Reverend Bishop McCloskey and expressed the wish that the ladies' auxiliary would grow and flourish and that its members would be happy. Father William's address throughout was sprinkled with humorous parentheticals enhanced by excellent sympathy.

After the applause following Father Gausepohl's address had died away Miss Julia Kelly sang "My Little Colleen" in her inimitable manner. Miss Mamie Keenan was the accompanist. Miss Kelly had to respond to an encore.

State President Keenan introduced Frank Cunningham, now of St. Louis, formerly a popular Hibernian of this city. He told of the good work Mr. Cunningham was doing for the order in the Mound City and expressed the wish that Louisville would send a big and representative delegation to the national convention in St. Louis next year. Mr. Keenan said further that he hoped that Mr. Cunningham would be made Chairman of the Entertainment Committee by the St. Louis Hibernians on the occasion of the national convention.

Mr. Cunningham stated that he only wished the kind words expressed by Mr. Keenan were merited. He was always pleased to be with his friends in Kentucky. The large gathering present, he said, augured well for the future of the organization. The speaker said that until about two years ago St. Louis had a flourishing ladies' auxiliary. Suddenly they all married members of the order and their cares increased so that they had to drop the ladies' auxiliary. This little statement brought forth a general laugh. Mr. Cunningham said he hoped for a healthy and successful organization of the ladies of Louisville and complimented the order in this city for their spirit and enterprise. Mr. Cunningham's remarks were liberally applauded.

Dave Reilly, of Division 4, sang one of his side-splitting songs, "The Irish Jubilee." Newton G. Rogers, another Hibernian who never shirked a duty, was introduced and stated that he considered the establishment of the ladies' auxiliary the most important movement undertaken by the Hibernians in recent years. This order, he said, was the largest Catholic and the largest national order in the world. But, he added, the Hibernians needed the help of the ladies in looking after the delicate, wise and broadminded dishonement of charity. He spoke of the absolute necessity for an auxiliary and said that Hibernianism makes members better men, better husbands and better citizens. Miss Mamie Keenan followed with a piano solo, which was heartily enjoyed.

County President Patrick T. Sullivan declined to make a speech, but said he hoped the Hibernians had enough refreshments on hand to feed the multitude. Brief remarks were also made by other members of the order while refreshments were being dispensed. State Treasurer Butler and Messrs. Pat Welsh, Jerry Corcoran, Martin Sheehy, Ed Mackey and Will McCue were in charge of the refreshments, which were liberally dispensed. While the assemblage was enjoying the good things set before them Michael Keane sang in Irish a song in good style. Miss Bridget Cahill sang a solo in Irish. Thomas P. Walsh, upon being introduced, said he was glad to see so many present and to recognize the fact that after such an excellent literary treat that they were now being tendered something more substantial. He recited with a poem and kept all present laughing his anecdotes. Miss Julia Kelly rendered a pretty piano solo, and then ex-State President Martin Cusick said he would be glad to see the name of every lady present on the charter roll of the auxiliary. Mr. Cusick also spoke of the three cardinal virtues of the Ancient Order of Hibernians. Brief addresses were also made by ex-State Secretary Coleman and Thomas Dolan, Chairman of the sports for the Irish field day. Fifty ladies signed their names as charter members of the auxiliary. The assemblage adjourned to meet one week from tomorrow night.

SAFE AT HOME.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Reichert Return From the Northwestern States.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Reichert have returned home after a pleasant trip through the great Northwestern States. However, their pleasure trip was not unalloyed with grief, as during their visit Mr. Reichert's brother-in-law, William Korner, died at Fond du Lac, Wis. Mr. and Mrs. Reichert went North to visit Mr. Korner, who was in poor health. He appeared to revive after they reached Fond du Lac, and many excursions were planned in honor of the Kentucky visitors. On one of these excursions word was brought that Mr. Korner was dying and his relatives arrived in time to bid him a last farewell on earth.

Mr. Reichert is greatly impressed with the Northwestern country. He has brought home with him his brother, Ignatius Reichert, and his niece, Miss Regina Reichert, of Long Prairie, Minn. Mr. Reichert and his daughter will remain in Louisville several weeks. Ignatius Reichert is a retired hotel keeper and is as popular in Minnesota as his brother Mike is in Kentucky. Miss Regina Reichert will be given many social attentions during her visit to Kentucky.

PRIZE OFFER

The Kentucky Irish American Wants to Be Good to Patrons.

Four Popular People Will Be Sent to the World's Fair.

Greatest Tender Ever Made by Any Paper in the Country.

GET YOUR FRIENDS TO VOTE FOR YOU

The Kentucky Irish American has decided to make its friends and patrons a generous offer, in fact the most generous offer made by any paper in the United States, to wit: A trip to the Louisiana Purchase Exposition, with railroad transportation and hotel bills paid for one week. It proposes to give the most popular man and wife, the most popular single man and most popular young lady the advantage of this offer. Thus four people will be benefited by the generosity of the Kentucky Irish American. Ballots will appear in the paper each week from now until July 1, 1904, thus allowing the contest to run a period of fifty weeks.

You can vote either for a man and his wife or else for the single man or single woman, but not for two persons, unless they be man and wife. Regular subscribers will have the same advantage as new subscribers, as each one will be entitled to a vote each week. New subscribers will be allowed fifty votes on the payment of $1; besides this they will get the paper for a year, with a ballot each week, thus insuring them 100 votes. Subscribers who are in arrears for one year or more can take advantage of this offer by paying up and for a year in advance. With each $1 paid they also may cast fifty votes.

Now do you know what this offer means? A week's trip to the greatest world's fair ever held. The grounds on which the Exposition is to be held are eight miles long and four miles wide. Every State in the Union will be represented by at least one distinctive building and every civilized country on the face of the globe will have its own building, in addition to the edifices devoted to science, the fine arts, manufactures, electricity, etc. Then St. Louis will be the greatest convention city next year. The Ancient Order of Hibernians and various other large organizations will hold their national conventions in the Mound City.

The Lindell Hotel has been selected as the hostelry at which the guests of the Kentucky Irish American are to be entertained. The Lindell has a reputation second to none in the United States. It was built by an Irishman and is now owned and managed by one of the wealthiest and most progressive Irish-Americans in the country. It is a hotel of the first class and its service is of the highest order.

There are positively no delays on this offer. The hotel bills will be paid a week in advance for four people, one man and wife, and a single lady and a single gentleman. The railroad transportation will be ready when this contest closes. Now if you feel that you are popular rally your friends round you and ask their support. Creed and nationality are not to be taken into consideration. There is no reason why anyone should hesitate to take advantage of the offer. Let it be further understood that no person or persons connected directly or indirectly with the Kentucky Irish American will be permitted to enter this contest. The judges who will count the ballots and award the prizes will be selected from the best people in Louisville, men whose integrity can not be questioned. Remember you cast fifty votes for each dollar paid in.

ORPHANS' FESTIVAL

Arranged For the Many Friends of St. Joseph's Asylum Society.

The festival for the children of St. Joseph's Orphan Asylum will be held on the asylum grounds, Crescent Hill, next Wednesday. The object is two-fold—to give the orphans a day of recreation and pleasure and to allow the general public the progress the children are making under the kindly care of the good Sisters. Incidentally it is hoped that the festival will help increase the membership of the asylum society.

The festival will begin at 5 o'clock in the morning, and the orphans have arranged to do their part in entertaining their guests. The Concordia Singing Society will be present during the day and evening and will sing several popular numbers. Moreover Professor Richhorn's concert band with twenty men will be in attendance all day and in the evening. A feature of the festival will be the "Dr. Lammer's Carnival Company." Among those who will appear in the carnival are Mrs. George Krippenstapel, Miss Ada Cunningham, Wempe children, Messrs. Ben Speaker, Michael Reichert, Jake Graft, Jake Ulmer, Joe Crush in a club swinging act, Peter Schreck, Andy Jones, Sam Merrifield, John Geisner, Clem Booker, Syl. Grove and others. The admission will be only twenty-five cents, but children will be admitted free. Refreshments will be served on the grounds, while street cars will pass the gate every few minutes.

A good old-fashioned German dinner and supper will be served by the lady friends of the St. Joseph's Orphan Society. Special care will be taken to serve supper for all present, no matter how large the crowd. There will be candies and toys for the children, and all who attend are assured a good time. Ben Schieuan will run the "wheel of good luck" and Joe Stearle will run the "wheel of fortune." A tin type photograph gallery will be another novel feature. It will be in charge of George Bohr and his committee. Great interest is being taken in this forthcoming festival by German, Irish and American Catholics, who desire to assist an institution that is doing so much for God's little ones.

The grounds are located in one of the most beautiful spots around Louisville. Stately oaks, beeches and widespread maples lend their kindly shade toward making the lawn a pleasant and attractive resting place.

CONDITION CRITICAL.

A telegram to the Kentucky Irish American from Georgetown states that Sister Mary Angela, Mother Superior of the Convent of the Visitation, is dangerously ill at Cardome, and on Thursday small hope for her recovery was entertained. Sister Angela's legion of friends throughout Kentucky will receive this intelligence with deep feelings of regret and genuine sorrow. To her more than any one else, perhaps, is due the phenomenal growth and success of Cardome, Convent of the Visitation, which is now foremost among the educational institutions for young girls in the South. The convent can ill afford to lose its saintly foundress, and it is to be sincerely hoped her life may be spared to continue the great work to which she has devoted her life.

PHINNEY'S BAND COMING.

Phinney's Band, of St. Louis, will open a week's engagement at the Jockey Club Park tomorrow night. This park continues to be an attractive resort during the hot evenings and the management is doing all in its power to please its patrons. One can not and a pleasant place to spend an evening.

DISCUSSION

Of Weber Claim Was Quite Lengthy in the Central Committee.

The Protest Against Payment Proved Unpopular and Was Withdrawn.

Confidence in Supreme Officers Expressed by Members of the Committee.

ADVISED TO BE SLOW BUT SURE

The Central Committee of the Catholic Knights of America held its regular monthly meeting at St. Mary's Hall on Friday night of last week. Considering the exceedingly hot weather a good attendance of delegates was on hand. Patrick Holley presided in the absence of President Michael Reichert. Secretary Martin called the roll and read the minutes of the previous meeting, which were approved. The Entertainment Committee, of which Joseph P. McGinn is Chairman, was ordered continued. John J. Score reported progress on the new directory of members. Newton G. Rogers made a report on the recent social meeting held in Jeffersonville, where it has been determined to hold an open meeting on the third Wednesday of each month. Patrick Holley reported that the recent street parade was a success and hoped all Louisville Knights would live to take part in it next year.

During the evening it was announced that a meeting would be held Friday night at the law office of Newton Rogers to receive additional reports for the new directory. It was also suggested that the gentlemen present that night consider the advisability of arranging for an entertainment for members and friends of the order some time during the next few months.

Supreme Trustee McGinn's statement of the financial condition of the Catholic Knights was particularly gratifying. The new supreme council has now got down to work and indications point to increased membership everywhere.

W. C. Smith, ex-Supreme Trustee, introduced a protest from Branch 4 against the payment of the Weber claim. Weber, it is alleged, disappeared from his home in Covington, Ky., about one year ago. He is believed to be dead and on that supposition it had been determined to pay the claim of $2,000 on his life.

Mr. Smith announced that he was a free lance now, but that he expected to be at the next State and national conventions. He also asked the Central Committee to sustain Branch 4's resolution of protest. Mr. Smith further stated that an injunction would be taken out to prevent the payment of the Weber claim and action would be instituted against the bonds of the supreme officers.

Mr. Smith's remarks caused considerable surprise, and an interesting discussion ensued, speaker following speaker for fully an hour and a half.

the Weber claim of $2,000. Mr. Smith was granted permission to withdraw his resolution, and the claim will be paid with the understanding that a $4,000 indemnifying bond be given. The meeting adjourned for one month.

BELOVED PRIEST

Who Died in Ireland Recently Was a Friend of the People

The Rev. Father Timothy M. O'Callaghan, curate of Rathcormac, one of the most popular priests in Ireland, died recently at Ballycotton. Father O'Callaghan was one of a family which had given many members to the church. For a number of years he was on the Australian mission, where he acted as secretary to the present Archbishop Murphy of Tasmania. On his return to Ireland he became associated with the diocese of Cloyne and was given a curacy at Mallow. Subsequently he was transferred to Donegal and thence to Rathcormac. He was held in high esteem by all the people. Father O'Callaghan was an intense Nationalist and at all conventions in Dublin was unanimously elected Secretary. He was a warm friend of the Irish members of Parliament, who sent cables of sympathy when they heard of his death. The deceased was forty-four years old. He frequently acted as arbitrator between tenant and landlord.

The Most Rev. Dr. Browne, Bishop of Cloyne, officiated at the solemn mass of requiem at Rathcormac. More than a hundred clergymen were present and the church was too small to hold the laymen who assembled to pay their last tribute to the dead soggarth aroon.

FRANKFORT.

Interesting News Items From the City Among the Hills.

Lambert Young Council, Y. M. C. I., will give its annual picnic about the middle of August, and arrangements are now being made to open Cove Spring Park with this event as soon as the new street car system becomes operative.

The newly organized military company, composed of the representative young men of the Capital City, will be officered by the following well known gentlemen: Will A. Lutkenmeier, Captain; Mervin Darrent, First Lieutenant; Coombs Dues, Second Lieutenant. They expect in the course of a few months to become the crack company of the State Guard.

Mr. V. L. Loughlin and bride returned last Saturday from their honeymoon trip, and will shortly go to housekeeping in a cozy little cottage on the South Side. Both are exceedingly popular in Catholic and society circles, and their hosts of friends in Frankfort and vicinity extend best wishes for a long and prosperous life of wedded bliss.

A large number of local Irish and citizens will attend the fair at Georgetown next Thursday. A pleasant time is anticipated by those who will go.

Last week a high mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. Father Major, pastor of the Church of the Good Shepherd, for the Rev. Father Lambert Young, for twenty-five years rector of the Catholic church at Frankfort. The mass was celebrated at the request of Lambert Young Council, and was attended by the members in a body.

FOUR SCORE

Birthdays Have Been Celebrated by Patrick Bannon, Sr.

Patrick Bannon, Sr., one of Louisville's oldest and best known Irish-American citizens, celebrated his eightieth birthday last Sunday. In addition to his children twenty of his grandchildren were present to wish Mr. Bannon many happy returns of the day. On Tuesday he left for two weeks' rest at West Baden Springs. He was accompanied by Col. John McAteer, Charles Stiglitz and A. E. Lavelly.

Mr. Bannon has been in business in Louisville for more than half a century and has at all times enjoyed the confidence of the best people. At the present time he is at the head of three large manufacturing concerns, and although he has rounded out eighty years his mental faculties are unimpaired. May he live long and prosper.

NOT CAPT. MINTON.

Capt. Patrick Minton, of the No. 8 Engine Company, was done an injustice by the daily papers in being mentioned as one of the late William Herrmann's companions at the fishing camp last week. Capt. Minton was on duty at the No. 8 Engine Company when the unfortunate accident occurred.

THE FRENCH CELEBRATE.

Our local French brethren, members of Le Cercle de l'Union Francaise, held their annual dinner in celebration of the fall of the Bastille at Fountain Ferry Park Tuesday night. The Hon. Michael Herrmann, French Consul at Louisville, presided. Eugene E. Pooley, the French consul at Cincinnati, was the guest of honor and delivered an address. Joseph and Rudolph Herrmann, twin sons of President Michael Herrmann, sang "The Marseillaise." Everybody present joined in the chorus. The evening was pleasantly spent.

REMARKABLE

Vitality Shown by the Venerable Head of the Catholic Church.

Pope Leo Successfully Withstood Ravages of Pleuro-Pneumonia.

His Presence of Mind Has Never Forsaken Him at Any Time.

ETERNITY DAWNS FOR HIS HOLINESS

His Holiness Pope Leo XIII., when this article was written, on Thursday afternoon, still lingers between life and death. For two weeks he has suffered from a severe attack of pleuro-pneumonia, a disease often fatal to young and strong men and women. Here is a man past his ninety-third year who has withstood it for a period of fourteen days. His remarkable vitality and will power are confounding scientists not only in Rome, but all over the civilized globe. Truly he is the greatest man of the age. Thrice he has been operated upon and relieved of the water that had gathered on his lungs. After each operation the venerable patient has rallied perceptibly, and yet his physicians say there is no hope.

Each day brought new bulletins from the attending surgeons and physicians. Day after day his approaching dissolution was announced, but the following day found him still alive. Contrary to the will of his physicians he has received Cardinals and Ministers of State. When all hope had left he arose and dressed himself with scarcely any assistance, and today, Thursday, he received holy communion during the celebration of the mass in honor of the Madonna of the Carmelites. Mass was celebrated in the little chapel opening into Pope Leo's room. His physician, Dr. Lapponi, his faithful servant, Pio Centra, and a half-dozen of the domestic servants of the Vatican attended the mass.

On Monday he was believed to be dying. The following day he announced to those around his bedside that he did not expect to die before Thursday or Wednesday, he rallied. He announced that he was now late on Thursday, and is still the visible head of the Catholic church.

Throughout his illness press and pulpit have had only good to say of Leo XIII. The daily papers have teemed with news of Pope Leo and the Vatican. Besides the secular press have had various editorials commending him for his scholarly manner, his pious life and his love of education and practical reform. Ministers of every denomination have not hesitated to hold him up as a model gentleman, illustrious scholar, able diplomat and faithful follower of Christ.

As the Cincinnati Commercial-Tribune says:

"He has been classed with Bismarck and with Gladstone, but he is greater than either, for he rules with a moral and not with the physical force that comes from great armies or navies. His is not a kingdom of the world. He rebuked the strong and the arrogant when strength and arrogance sought to work injustice; he stood for law, for order and for constituted authority and was uncompromising with wrong. Whosoever may succeed him will be Bishop and Pope of Rome and will have and receive the spiritual homage and obedience of his church. He will be the successor of Leo and will sit in the chair of Peter—but he will not be Leo, for the world is not given many of the type of Leo, needing the type, but possibly not deserving it. Pope Leo could truly say with St. Paul:

"For I am now ready to be offered and the time of my departure is at hand. I have fought a good fight. I have finished the course. I have kept faith."

Leo XIII. has ruled wisely and well during the last twenty-five years. He was not only the greatest man of the nineteenth century, but it is hardly possible that the twentieth century will see his equal. He is dying as he lived, a friend of all the people, recognizing neither race nor position in life. To him we are all God's sheep and he, Leo, the chief shepherd. Like his Master, he leaves the ninety and nine safe in the fold to rescue the one who has gone astray. Pray that he may live some time yet to be an inspiration and a guiding light to his people.

In the American Protestant churches in Rome last Sunday prayers were offered up for the Holy Father's recovery.

His Holiness Pope Leo XIII. is still alive at this writing, Friday morning, though the dispatches say his condition is less satisfactory than at any time since he fell ill on July 3. His mind continues clear and he continues by word and deed to show his love for his people. Thursday night he rested well, but he may die before another sun sets, so serious is his condition.

Which indicates that there are corporations with souls—of which the Louisville and Nashville Railroad Company is one. In fact workmen have rarely had occasion to complain of the Louisville and Nashville, and of recent years, since the adoption of arbitration, there has been no trouble nor cause for it. The Louisville and Nashville under its present management is all right.

PEERS OF KINGS.

The recent visit of American naval officers to Germany and England, and President Loubet, of France, to England, mark the breaking down of the old-time monarchical exclusiveness. These representatives of republics, none of them of "noble birth," were cordially received and feted, not only formally as the representatives of their governments, but socially by the sovereigns and nobility. Indeed the German Emperor and English King were hospitable to the fullest extent, and their attaches to the verge of flattery. To the credit of the Americans and the French President, they conducted themselves with propriety, graciously acknowledging the courtesies and sentiments of the Germans, but all their words were devoid of sincerity or toadyism, in marked contrast with their entertainers. The results of those visits will undoubtedly be to impress the crowned heads that men can be gentlemen worthy of every respect, regardless of the "blood," and that republics ruled by the people produce men the peers of kings.

FRANCE STRIKES A SNAG.

The French Government, in its crusade against the religious orders, is running into complications tending to confusion and trouble. Nuns, for whom all taxes had been paid by people anxious for them to remain, were ejected from their convents because the records showed the property to be held in the name of the religious order. An English lady, not a Catholic, owning a house in the vicinity, tendered it to the nuns, who have taken up their domicile there instead of leaving the country as expected. The lady owns the property in her right and is a British subject.

In other cases Americans, Germans, Italians and other foreigners living in France, and holding property by ownership or lease, have given domicile to members of ostracized and ejected religious orders. To attempt to oust or in any way interfere with these religious occupants of the foreigners' property will make the issue international with the governments of the owners or lessees, an issue on which the law, treaties and precedent are plain. The French Ministry halt, hesitate, balked and puzzled. What are they to do about it?

Again, the property from which the religious orders were expelled is held by the Government. It is the intention to confiscate and sell it. But foreigners may buy it and reinstate the expelled religious orders as tenants, under protection of the government of the owner or holder.

Rights of foreign subjects in Kentucky is a question that it is to see that they are. This checked the seizure of church property by the Italian Government in Rome, which had ordered the occupants of the American College to vacate. Its officials protested to the American Minister; the American Government protested to the Italian Government, and pending negotiations the American flag was raised over the college—and that ended it.

This right of a foreigner was the beginning of the end of the Kulturkampf in Germany, though not so summarily. All religious orders were ejected, expelled, their property ordered sold. A foreign nobleman purchased a monastery and lands. He formally and legally leased it to the order that had been ejected therefrom. The German Government refused to permit the lessees to return to Germany to occupy their leasehold. The owner appealed to his government, which took up the matter with the German Government. The right of the owner to put the property to any other use, the validity of the lease, were not questioned, but the German Government insisted that the lessees—the religious order—being expelled from and forbidden to return to Germany for violation of German laws, could not be permitted to possess their leasehold. After prolonged diplomatic negotiations the German Government, foreseeing it would have to yield, amended the law so as to authorize the Government to suspend or modify judgments rendered under it. The religious order, as lessees, were permitted, under special imperial decree, to return to Germany and reoccupy their monastery—and thus it went on, with the proscriptions of the Kulturkampf still in force, the law becoming practically a dead letter and eventually being repealed piecemeal, until now Germany, instead of ejecting and expelling religious orders, invites, welcomes and offers to them domicile and protection when driven from France.

Nations, like individuals, can do as they please, even wrong, so long as it concerns only themselves; but nations, like individuals, must respect the rights of others. France may do as she pleases with French subjects and what belongs to them; but she seems to have reached the point where, like Germany, she will be brought to realize that she must respect the rights of others not French subjects, even in her territory and jurisdiction, and, what is more, to protect, not trench upon, those rights. It may safely be taken for granted that the French Government will not further molest the members of religious orders occupying the property of foreign owners and lessees, and to that extent her proscriptive laws are a dead letter. Will this prove the beginning of the end of proscription in France, as in Germany? History is still a parrot, repeating itself, as it has ever done.

The respectable negroes of Indianapolis have taken the proper step, fully recognizing that it is the shiftless and criminal element among them which incites the antagonism of the whites. They have organized the "Negro Business League," with the purpose of suppressing the "bad niggers." They will keep tab on the colored drones and toughs, warn them to mend their ways or leave the city. Failing in this, they are to be reported to the authorities and prosecuted. The respectable colored people everywhere should do likewise, and there will soon be an end to race prejudice, for the worthless and insolent negroes are the cause. While there are whites who "don't like a nigger anyhow," and all have their likes and dislikes, the American people generally recognize the right of everyone to live in peace under full protection of the law if he behaves himself—the negroes not excepted.

The newsboys, those busy little merchants of the streets, are the men who later in life generally turn out well. The newsboys of the present day are the very cornerstones of American business life. Louisville newsboys are as live, as energetic and as honest as can be found in any community. Surely it must have been lack of foresight that prompted a great metropolitan newspaper to import other newsboys from the Windy City.

That was a brave girl in West Virginia, who in the absence of her father, the jailer, leveled a repeating rifle out of a second-story window and warned a mob to "git." Though all the men were armed, they heeded the girl's advice.

Col. Morris B. Belknap has been nominated for Governor of Kentucky by the Republicans. His nomination pleases the Democrats immensely.

Kelly and Bosler Each Secured Forty New Members For Trinity.

The contest between the rival factions in Trinity Council, Young Men's Institute, as to which side would secure the greatest increase in membership closed Monday evening. Of course the rivalry was friendly and the quest for new members was conducted in a friendly manner. James B. Kelly was captain of one side and Ed Bosler captain of the other. Each side has secured the initiation of forty new members. As the primary object was to increase the membership of Trinity Council both sides are well pleased. Before long two other teams will be selected to emulate the work of Messrs. Kelly and Bosler. Trinity Council now has more than 300 members and is still growing.

MRS. DENUNZIO DEAD.

Mrs. Denunzio, widow of Joseph Denunzio, died at her home, 1217 Fourth avenue, yesterday morning. She had been ill of dropsy for several months and her death was not unexpected. She was a devout member of St. Louis Bertrand church. The orphans were particular proteges of hers and at the big bazaar held here several years ago Mrs. Denunzio spent her time and money liberally for the motherless and fatherless little ones. She also gave a lot in St. Louis cemetery, adjoining her own, to the Italian Brotherhood, as a last resting place for its members.

DEEP SYMPATHY

Goes Out to Col. Sebastian Gunther in His Latest Bereavement.

Once again the angel of death has invaded the home of Col. Sebastian Gunther, our esteemed Chief of Police. Only a few months ago his only daughter, in the full bloom of young womanhood, was carried off by typhoid fever. On Wednesday of the present week Emily Gunther, eleven years old, the youngest son, was killed by a falling brick. The little fellow and several companions were playing on Roman street, between Eleventh and Twelfth, all unconscious of danger, when a brick fell from the third story of a factory under construction and struck the child on the head. The boy's skull was crushed, and despite all that medical science could do he died several hours later. This is the sixth death in Col. Gunther's family within a year.

Col. Gunther's friends are legion and their sympathy is being extended to him and his family in this latest affliction.

of the company, was chief host. He was assisted in receiving by Edward Oesterritter, Vice President of the company

Louis Hollenbach, Secretary-Treasurer;

until nearly midnight and all present were loud in the praise of the Phil Hol-

Phil Hollenbach, one of our best known and most substantial German-
American citizens, founded the Phil Hollenbach Company in 1878. It was then known as Hollenbach Bros. In was incorporated with the following although the year is scarcely half spent.

As an auxiliary to the wine business the Phil Hollenbach Company conducts the of "Fortuna" and "Pride of the West," excellent lemon corrective, and is better than any anti-fault medicine invented.

Handles of ivory or pearl trimmed knives should never be wet. The blades should be wiped with hot water and washed and the handles wiped with a dry cloth.

before putting in the flour, as this will prevent it falling to the bottom of the

NATIONALISTS

Assembled at Bodentown to Honor Wolfe Tone's Memory.

Stirring Address Delivered by Hon. John T. Keating, of Chicago.

Thousands Gathered at the Little Churelyard in Historic Bodentown.

SOME REMARKS OF MRS. McWHORTER

The Hon. John T. Keating, of Chicago, ex-National President of the Ancient Order of Hibernians, was the orator of the day at the 140th anniversary celebration of the birth of Wolfe Tone, Irish patriot and martyr, held at Bodentown recently. Thousands of people from all parts of Ireland were present at the celebration of the memory of Wolfe Tone and the gallant men who fell with him in 1798. Shortly after 3 o'clock a procession was formed in the main street, the place of honor at its head being given to the Charleville life and drum band, which had come a very long distance. They came the Wolfe Tone Executive, the Robert Emmet Centenary Committee, Tuamora life and drum band, Major MacBride Club, Gaelic athletic section, Ballybrittas band, Old Guard Union, Costume Association branch and Foresters, headed by their band; Cuimann na Gnaeithe, Gaelic section, Gaelic branches, trades bodies, Young Ireland Society, '98 clubs, etc. The bands present included St. James', Barrack street life and drum band, Monasterevan do., Volunteer do., Bray Emmet brass band, Clara life and drum band, Foresters' band, etc. The march to the churchyard took over an hour.

On reaching the stand, which had been erected near the grave of Tone, Mr. O'Hanlon moved that Hon. P. J. Devlin be elected Chairman. The election was unanimous. After a brief address Mr. Devlin introduced the orator of the day, Mr. John T. Keating.

The Hon. J. T. Keating then came forward to address the people and was received with long and sustained outbursts of cheering. He said that the message of that meeting would be to the Irish people scattered all the world over a declaration that the Nationalists of Ireland were willing to do and dare. He was glad to be there to receive new life and energy on touching the soil of his native land, but he was more glad still to be near the townland where was born his old friend and colleague, John Devoy. He was there that day to preach the doctrine they represented in a place where none but that doctrine could be preached. They were there that day not to interchange opinion on the domestic policy of Ireland, but for the purpose of renewing their vows at a shrine that represented everything that could be embodied in the principles of Irish nationality. They were there at a time which was almost similar to the date made memorable by the circumstances that surrounded it—the date on which Wolfe Tone was born. Wolfe Tone took his part in regenerating Ireland at a crucial period, when those who ought to have led had fled, when those who ought to have fought were gone, when the people of Ireland who remained were robbed and called poor, were forbidden to learn and called ignorant, but were still loyal to their God and loyal to their country. He came from the class which, while they did not belong to the religion which was professed by the majority of the people of the country, nevertheless was a class from which had been selected many of the great leaders of the Irish people, and whose selection had given a world-wide evidence of the broad-minded and the religious liberty of the Irish people. Tone was an orator; Ireland had had too many orators. He was a man of action; Ireland had had too few men of action. He was one of those who were willing to try the logic of constitutional agitation, but he was one of those who did not desire to live by constitutional agitation. He was honest enough to come before the people and to announce his decision. That decision was in sympathy with the ideas that permeated that vast meeting. They showed Tone's confession of faith was a text, "To subvert the tyranny of our execrable Government, to break the connection with England, the never-failing source of our political evils, to assert the independence of my country—these were my objects. To unite the whole people of Ireland, to abolish the memory of all its past dissensions and to substitute the common name of Irishmen in place of the denominations of Protestant, Catholic, Dissenter—these were my means. The English connection is Ireland's bane. It is not the way England administers or fails to administer laws; it is the fact that she has the power to make the laws of Ireland. Do as best they can—govern as well as they can—such are the racial differences, leaving aside national and historic antagonism, that Englishmen can not so administer laws for Ireland as to make our people prosperous and happy."

Those were the words of Tone, and the message had as much point now as it had then. Having sketched briefly and in an interesting manner the life of Wolfe Tone, the speaker went on to say that the position was the same today as it was in the time of Tone. The Irish people could no longer look to France, but he, speaking on behalf of the people of America, and in the name of America, asked the people of Ireland to give evidence that the spirit of Tone was alive amongst them. They in America had had men from Ireland visiting their shores, they had had professional politicians going through America loudly proclaiming that the grave of Tone was forgotten. They were praying for the day when the aegis of America would be spread over Ireland, when the flag that Irishmen had fought for, and died for, would be floating side by side with the banner of those representing the principles of the real and true Nationalists of Ireland.

Mr. Keating's address was received with cheers. Mrs. William McWhorter, State President of the Illinois Branch of the Ladies' Auxiliary to the Ancient Order Hibernians, was introduced and expressed her pleasure at the grand demonstration. She said she stood before them representing 50,000 women of Irish birth, whose object was to promote the principles of Irish nationality in the Irish race. Mrs. McWhorter's address was frequently applauded. The meeting concluded with votes of thanks to Mr. Keating, Mrs. McWhorter and Chairman Devlin.

Interesting Session of the County Board Perfects Plans.

A DAY OF INNOCENT AMUSEMENT.

The County Board of the Ancient Order of Hibernians held a large and enthusiastic meeting Wednesday night. County President Sullivan was in the chair, and the roll call showed every division represented.

Thomas Dolan, Chairman of the Committee on Games for the Irish field day, reported that he had his work well in hand. Among other things he announced that there would be a tug of war between teams from Divisions 3 and 4. A letter from a prominent St. Louis Hibernian was read announcing that between 400 and 500 Hibernians and members of the Knights of Columbus would come to Louisville to attend the Irish field day, and that they would bring with them the Marquette Club, a base ball team composed of members of the Knights of Columbus. The visitors will reach Louisville Sunday morning, August 23, attend mass at one of the our churches and board the boats for Fern Grove.

This announcement was received with applause and the following committee was appointed to receive the St. Louis visitors: Thomas Walsh, William M. Higgins, Joseph P. McGinn, John Mulloy, William T. Meehan and Mark Ryan. Several priests will accompany the St. Louis visitors to Louisville.

The Committee on Arrangements have secured three boats for trips in the morning and evening. The morning trip will be made after 9:30 o'clock and the afternoon trips at 1:30 and 2 o'clock. The object is to give Hibernians and their families a day of innocent amusement and a pleasant ride on the river. The field day was a success last year and it is generally believed that the approach event will surpass the first one. Chairman Dolan has charge of the entries for games and athletic contests and he says the number of entries thus far augurs well for success. In Limerick, Portland and elsewhere young Hibernians are training for the field day games. No intoxicating liquors will be allowed on the grounds. President Tynan invited all Hibernians to attend the next initiation of Division 1, which will be held Tuesday, July 28. The County Board adjourned to meet with Division 4 next Wednesday night, when other reports will be received.

A fine gold watch will be given to the lady selling the largest number of tickets.
